

PRESS RELEASE

Welcome to Inter-Iodex

Science is a foundation of progress. Chemistry, microbiology and biotechnology – there are no mysteries for us when it comes to the most important factors in production. Many years of experience gathered by our team leads to enormous potential which enables us to prepare and implement innovative products and technological solutions. Reliability, innovativeness and constant development are a vital part of our activity which is based on a profound belief that our work helps others.

About us

Inter-Iodex is an experienced Polish company which has been taking care of hygiene services comprehensively for 26 years. It offers a wide scope of specialized cleaning and disinfection and antiseptic preparations, as well as professional cleaning and disinfection equipment and also technical counseling embracing detailed sanitary programs and training courses for employees. Our consultants advise on current activities related to maintaining cleanliness as well as in situations requiring urgent intervention. We are monitoring the latest trends on raw chemical materials market and in R&D sector. That approach helps us to answer clients' needs and to offer particular, simple and effective solutions provided in the shortest possible time and with use of the modern technology, equipment and processes which enables us to cut costs. We offer entirely new conceptions, we do not use routine solutions – we start with sanitary audit, next we diagnose needs and then we act. Maintaining high level of hygiene which will guarantee microbiological purity of products and consumers security requires analyzing potential threats and effective solutions preventing their arising. Our consultants conduct systematic and planned training courses for employees in food processing firms in terms of hygiene maintaining, paying attention especially to potential threat of microbiological pollution.
